

Good Practice Guide

Foreword

Best Management Practice, Current Recommended Practice, Good Agricultural Practice... call them what you will, at vegetablesWA we believe any practice that helps our growers achieve high yields of good quality produce, with minimal impact on the environment, is a good practice.

This Good Practice Guide, produced by vegetablesWA, forms part of a project entitled 'Linking Best Management Practices with Property Planning'. Funded by investment from both the Australian and State Governments, through the Natural Heritage Trust, the project is administered in the Swan Region by the Swan Catchment Council.

The Guide is integral to a strategy that utilises a range of resources aimed at achieving a common goal – that of sustainable vegetable production on the Swan Coastal Plain. We hope you find it user-friendly, and that it will provide you, our WA vegetable growers, with the information you need to apply good practice in the field.

The loose-leaf format of the Guide means that vegetablesWA can add chapters and accompanying resources as the project progresses. Further, it gives you the opportunity to customise this resource by adding specific information about your own property and the types of crops you grow.

We trust that you share our vision of continual improvement within the industry and that you will find the Guide useful in achieving good practice.

Acknowledgements

The vegetablesWA Good Practice Guide is part of a project entitled 'Linking Best Management Practices With Property Planning'. This project is funded by the Australian and Western Australian Governments' investment in the Natural Heritage Trust, administered in the Swan Region by the Swan Catchment Council.

vegetablesWA acknowledges and appreciates the support of the Department of Agriculture and Food Western Australia (DAFWA) and the Swan Catchment Council in developing the Guide.

Numerous individuals contributed to the development of the Guide and supporting documents and also generously supplied many of the photographs used throughout. vegetablesWA would like to recognise in particular the following for their efforts:

- the Project Management Committee, comprising David Anderson (chairman, vegetablesWA), Allan McKay (DAFWA) and David Ellement (Industry Development Officer, vegetablesWA);
- Kathryn McCarren, former vegetablesWA research officer, who undertook much of the research, compiled information from a range of sources and mapped out the look of the Guide;
- Gavin Foord, who took over from Kathryn and finalised the chapters on nutrition management and water management;
- Josephine Norman, for her editing and proofing of the text, and
- Brad Ramm of Ramm&Co. for the layout and design of the Guide.

vegetablesWA – Good Practice Guide First edition published 2007 ISBN 978 0 9803522 0 7

Disclaimer

vegetablesWA makes this guide and the information contained within freely available to Western Australian vegetable growers on the understanding that users exercise their own care and judgement with respect to its use.

vegetablesWA and its employees and contributors do not guarantee that the publication is without flaw of any kind or wholly appropriate for growers' particular purposes and therefore disclaims all liability for any error, loss or other consequence that may arise from any reliance by users on any information contained herein.

This publication is intended to inform Western Australian growers of current best practices in the industry at the time of publication. That said, growers are advised to also obtain appropriate professional advice relevant to their particular circumstances.